When you are using fire you need instructions.
THESE ARE YOUR AMBI FLAME PIT INSTRUCTIONS &

WARNINGS

Your Ambi Flame Pit is safe to burn both indoors and outdoors. The recommended Isopropyl (rubbing alcohol) will create soot only where the flame touches, and it will never dirty your ceiling or surrounding areas. Recommended use: In a well ventilated area, larger than 25m².

Being safe is a priority whenever using fire in any form. REMEMBER the fuel used in your Ambi Flame Pit is highly flammable and can be DANGEROUS if not used in accordance with instructions. Please follow all listed instructions & warnings and your Ambi Flame Pit will be nothing but 100% safe and enjoyable.

- Only to be used on a large stable flat surface.
- Use 70% or 91% isopropyl alcohol fuel - Always double-check that the word "isopropyl" is on the bottle of alcohol you purchase. "Rubbing alcohol" can actually be different from "Isopropyl rubbing alcohol" (it may contain camphor oil or other oils, which can leave undesirable soot).
- Never exceed the "MAX" level on inner metal combustion canister.
- Maximum amount per session is around 140ml (lasting from 40-60min).
- Any spillage needs to be cleaned with dry paper towel or rag prior to lighting.
- Only use an extended lighter or extra-long matches to ignite.
- Never move, refill or touch the Ambi Flame Pit while alight.
- Only use the provided Snuff plate to extinguish, Never ever attempt to blow out your Ambi Flame Pit.
- Ambi Flame Pit is to be enjoyed by all but never lit or operated by minors.
- Never leave your Ambi Flame Pit unattended while alight.
- Keep flammable objects at least 1 metre away from Ambi Flame Pit when alight.
- Do not burn longer than 1 hour at a time, allow fire pit to cool to the touch prior to reigniting your Ambi Flame Pit.
- Always wait 5 minutes between refueling and ensure previous fire is snuffed out before doing so.
- Do not open fuel refill container near Ambi Flame Pit when alight.
- After use, always empty Ambi Flame Pit, do not leave fuel in pit after use. Please dispose of safely.
